Each state affiliate to the LP is entitled to a set number of convention delegates. A formula that factors in the number of votes cast for the Libertarian candidate in the most recent presidential election combined with the number of National Libertarian Party dues paying members determines how many seats each state has at the convention.

As of today, the LPNY would be entitled to 47 delegates at the 2020 Austin convention. That number won't be finalized until after the October 31st deadline for calculating national memberships.

We still have time to add to our number of delegates in Austin by increasing our membership total. If you want to help send more New York State delegates to Austin please purchase a national membership
