Historical,

Recent events in Argentina, where the bombastic Libertarian Javier Milei is leading the charge, have taken an interesting turn. As we approach the Argentina Presidential Election this Sunday, November 19th, Milei is ahead by a mere 2 points in the polls, illustrating the impact the message of Liberty has on people who are suffering from economic disaster thrust upon them by their government's monetary policies.

The hyperinflation crisis in Argentina serves as a stark reminder of the consequences of centralized control over monetary policy and unrestrained fiat currency printing. Even amid such challenges, Milei's campaign highlights the power of advocating Libertarian ideals and principles.

As we watch Argentina's fight for Liberty in a collapsing economy, consider the following opportunities we have here in America:

Presidential Megaphone for Liberty: Our presidential candidate serves as a powerful voice, resonating with those grappling to make ends meet. The values espoused at the national level have the potential to create a transformative impact on policies that influence the lives of everyday Americans.

Highlighting the Demarcation of Cost and Income: People are feeling the pain at the pump, in the grocery store, and in the market for longterm goods like housing and cars. Explaining the impact of moving off the gold standard and the moral hazard of fiat currency has never had a greater potential to impact the American public discourse than right now.

Cryptocurrency Adoption: We can promote the benefits of cryptocurrency on a national scale while implementing adoption in our local communities. Encouraging its use as an alternative to traditional fiat currency aligns with our vision of decentralized, individual-centric financial systems.

Local Empowerment: The presidential race is not just a podium to spread our ideas but also a recruitment tool. Our presidential candidate has the power to inspire individuals to run at the local level, where our principles can be implemented directly into policies that affect our communities.

Javier Milei's close race underscores the potency of Libertarian values as a beacon of hope, particularly for those facing economic hardships. It serves as a reminder that individuals who champion libertarian principles can resonate with and impact a broad audience.

The presidential podium provides a unique platform to amplify our message and influence policies that extend beyond the local sphere. While local races are crucial, let's not underestimate the potential for change that arises when our principles are broadcasted at the national level.

With that being said, we are still fighting to get Ballot Access for all 50 states, and we need your help if we are to have a chance of inspiring the kind of change the Milei is in his own country. If every person receiving this email donates $50, we will have Ballot Access in all 50 states. Help us inspire an ideological revolution here at home.

Secure Ballot Access in all 50 states

We invite you to envision the current landscape not as a hopeless endeavor but as an opportunity for creating change. By rallying behind our national candidates and initiatives, we can channel our combined efforts into a brighter future that aligns with Libertarian ideals and reaches those in need.

Thank you for your unwavering dedication to the principles of liberty. Together, let's maximize the power of the presidential megaphone and use it as a catalyst for local empowerment.
