Introducing Big City Libertarianism I Devin Balkind

Unlike the Green Party and DSA, which draw a significant support from urban areas, the Libertarian Party is significantly more popular in suburban and rural areas. Some believe this distribution of support is inevitable (as city residents rely on government more than rural their counterparts), but it isn't. The Libertarian party can re-frame its values for urban populations and develop an urban agenda rooted in social tolerance, good governance, and urban empowerment. (read more)

Thoughts from the Chair I Jim Rosenbeck

“What do libertarians believe in?” “How are libertarians different from other political parties?” I hear these questions often and I suspect that many of you hear the same or similar questions. There are a number of good approaches that we can use in responding to these queries. The best ones engage the questioner in a dialogue and the respectful exchange of ideas. This is how we win hearts and minds. This is how we can promote liberty. (read more)

With Schneiderman Out, Who Is Left In The New York Attorney General Race?

Will Libertarian Chris Garvey be the next New York Attorney General? With the sudden, dramatic implosion of Eric Schneiderman's career and reelection hopes, the question emerges: Who will be the next New York State Attorney General? (read more)

Thoughts from the Chair I Jim Rosenbeck

The 2018 LPNY convention held in Albany on the weekend of April 20-22 was a great success! Many thanks to Jeff Russell, Bill McMillen, and the Capital District libertarians for all of their hard work, class and professionalism. (read more)
